VOLUME 31, NUMBER 17 | CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA | WEDNESDAY, JAN. 17, 1934

Current Comment

The good burghers of Willow Glen are seething over the injustice of a certain clause in the proposed new county charter which excludes them—and all other communities sans high school districts—from having a voice in the election of the first and all-important personnel commission.

Choosing lists of eligibles for all county offices except those of sheriff, county attorney and supervisors, the first personnel commission will itself be selected by members of the various high school boards throughout the county.

Voters of Willow Glen, Air Point, Alum Rock, Union, Almaden, Alviso, Ausaymas, Berryessa, Burbank, Burrell, Evergreen, Franklin, Hall's Valley, Harney, Jackson, Laguna, Las Manzanitas, McKinley, Midway, Milpitas, Montebello, Mt. Hamilton, Mt. Pleasant, Oak Grove, Orchard, Summit and Sunol—quite a formidable list—will therefore have no voice in choosing the first personnel commission

When first I read the charter this clause loomed up a a stumbling block of no mean proportions, and I looked for the day when it would be seized upon by Willow Glen and other communities which do not participate in high school districts If the charter fails to carry, its creators will have small satisfaction in pinning its defeat upon this psychological oversight on their part

Otherwise little opposition to the proposed charter has been noted by this writer. While certainly embracing some fine features, the charter will not, in my opinion, reduce expenses so very much, and is, I believe, more or less an instrument with which to pry the "ins" out, while at the same time providing a highway on which the "outs" may in turn enter the coveted field. As far as politics are concerned, we'll still have them—and don't forget it.

Old Settlers' day, long an annual event of Feb. 22, will be held this year in the regular manner. Due to an apparent lack of interest, chamber of commerce officials were seriously debating the advisability of going ahead with plans, when last night's meeting of that civic group was attended by enthusiastic citizens. Committees have been appointed, and everything is on the up-grade.

Campbell has long been a "slow-starter" but, once started, no half-way measures are tolerated. Folks throughout the valley may therefore rest assured that a fine series of programs will await them here on Feb. 22.

The local chamber of commerce, it seems to me, labors under the most disheartening handicap possible—lack of attendance. No great amount of money is needed by the organization, nor is any one person asked to devote an unreasonable amount of time to its activities. It would flourish astoundingly on a diet of regular and adequate attendance, however, and that would be a good resolution for all of us to make: to attend all meetings and cooperate to the best of our ability in whatever civic enterprises are launched by the Campbell chamber of commerce .

A Boy Scout-Parent organization will be formed this evening at 6:30 at the grammar school cafeteria. Dr. W. I.Merrill will preside, and Mrs. S. N. Hedegard will be in charge of the dinner. A program will feature demonstrations by scouts, sleight-of-hand performance by Hugh Cramer and trumpet solos by Wilbur Morton.

Funeral for Auto Crash Victim In L. G. Thursday

Funeral services will be held tomorrow (Thursday) morning at 10 o'clock from the Melvin chapel in Los Gatos for Albert R. Smith, local rancher, who was killed about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning when his car sideswiped a bridge on Quito road near the A. J. Raisch home.

The impact of the crash threw Smith onto the pavement, fracturing his skull. His body was found lying near the wrecked car by Mrs. Eva Mitchell of Aldercroft Heights who from Austin corners notified police. Traffic Officer Lyman Feathers of Los Gatos summoned an ambulance and medical aid. Smith was beyon daid when they arrived at the scene of the accident.

A native of Missouri, Smith had lived here 28 year. He was the husband of Mrs. Lillian May Smith and the father of Betty E., Allan J., Marion, Harold and Janet Smith, all of Campbell, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith of Willow Glen.

Other survivors include the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Birdie E. Knorpp of Kansas, Edwin S. Smith of Kansas City, Mo.; Walter B., George T., Fred H. and Ted Smith of Campbell; James R. Smith of San Jose, Mrs. Andy Sagaser of Cupertino. He was preceded in death by another brother, the late Ernest L. Smith.

Members of "Stray Cats" Cast Experienced Players

"Stray Cats," the Alumnae play to be presented in the Campbell Grammar school auditorium Saturday evening, Jan. 27th, has a cast composed of characters who have all taken part in at least one major production during the time they were in high school, which in itself should assure the public that the forthcoming play will be a success.

Frances Reed, class of '33, who portrays the part of the office girl, played the part of Bernice Ashley in the senior play of last year, and in 1932 was Lillie in the operetta, "The Magic Maker".

Idel Fulton, class of '33, who, in the alumnae play is Leona Brooks, a fairly well-to-do society girl, had minor roles in 1933 and in 1934, but she is best remembered as the mistress of ceremonies for the class night of the graduating class of 1933.

Mildred Cooke, '32, the very young artist's model, Wanda Taylor, had one of the leads in the operetta of 1932. In the play she plays the part of a very vivacious and beautiful lady who doesn't understand the ways of the world quite as fully as she would like to.

Vesta Cooper, '30, who was Vesta Anderson in high school, has the part of a very coy and designing widow, Mrs. Jennie Long, who is definitely in the market for another husband, and fully intends that she shall have one before the evening is over. Vesta played the part of Elsie in the senior play, "Charm School," in 1930. She was one of the organizers of the Campbell Players, composed of high school students interested in dramatics, and as a member of this

Campbell Maintains Lead In Inter-City Baseball League

In another close and spectacular game the Campbell club defeated the Napredak nine by a 4-1 score. This is the third consecutive victory for Campbell over the Slovonians.

It was a pitchers' battle from the first inning, with Matusich hurling for the visitors, and Quain for the home club. Quain allowed but three hits, two being of the "scratch" variety, while Matusich was nicked for six, all of them hard hit, and climaxed by a drive into right field by Mitchell. Mis judged by L. Bonacich, the drive enabled Mitchell to circle the bases. There were two men on at the time.

Matusich's curve ball was working good Sunday, and he "whiffed" 12 Campbell batters.

The local club scored its first run in the third inning on Clark's free pass to first, Quain's sacrifice, and hits by Thurber and Tucker. The Napredaks tied it up in the fourth without a hit. Johnny Brayavich was hit by a pitched ball, stole second, went to third on an infield out, and scored when Thurber "booted" Saich's roller. From then on Quain was practically invincible, though twice aided by Jung in centerfield, where the latter made two spectacular catches.

Bishop and Tucker singled for Campbell, and were driven in by Mitchell's homer.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

California's farm debt adjustment committee, recently named by Governor Rolph at the instance of the farm credit administration in Washington, D. C., has already set to work on its important task of bringing relief to the state's debt-burdened farmers.

As a preliminary and vital step in its plan of rehabilation, the state-wide committee is proceeding to select the various county farm-debt committees which will assist in securing debt adjustments advantageous to both debtor and creditor.

When the personnel of the county committees has been tentatively approved the names will be submitted to the governor for final approval and apppointment, with every effort being made to expedite the set-up so that relief may be speedily given.

T. C. Tucker, manager of the California Almond growers exchange, has been selected as chairman of the state committee, with the following serving as members: R. W. Blackburn, California Farm Bureau federation; R. V. Garrod, California Farmer's union; C. B. Hutchinson, dean of the college of agriculture; M. T. Hunt, California State grange; John Lawler, agricultural council of California; J. R. Kruse, Sacramento, and J. N. Russell, Los Angeles, representing insurance companies; J. E. Huntoon, San Francisco, representing banks; J. O. Hayes, San Jose publisher; Florence J. O'Brien, Chico publisher; A. A. Brock state director of agriculture, and R. N. Wilson state chamber of commerce.

The farm credit administration's personal representative in the farm debt adjustment in California, who is also charged with supervision of Arizona and Nevada, will be Harry E. Drobish, formerly farm advisor of Butte county, and more recently a director in the federal government's crop reduction program in Idaho.

There is much to be hoped for—much of promise—in the work of the debt conciliation, or adjustment committees.

The present depression, it is fairly well determined, is essentially "a debt depression," due to over-extension in personal credits; excessive borrowings by groups, and unsound credit policies encouraged by banks.

Organically, agriculture's illness is "debt-sickness" and there can be little hope of a permanent cure unless something is done to give the farmer a chance of paying out—and his creditor a chance of bailing-out. The farm-debt committees will have the thankless but important job of seeking to achieve the greatest measure of social and economic justice for both groups.

The future of California agriculture, in many respects, will be more largely in the hands of the unselfish men and women who serve on these debt-adjustment committees than with any other group.

Here are some of the functions which the county committees, under the supervision of the state-wide committee, will serve:

As a source of accurate information and counsel to distressed debtors and their creditors;

Re-establishment of the confidence of farmers and the perfecting of equitable agreements so that good farmers will not hastily give up their farms and homes by deeding them to creditors;

Preventing unnecessary foreclosures;

Assisting debtors and creditors in their adjustments of their debts for the ultimate good of both parties;

Providing for extension agreements to permit further negotiations when final composition of debts seems impossible;

When local mediation fails, to direct debtors to the proper court facilities, including conciliation commissioners to be appointed by bankruptcy courts;

Providing reliable information to local courts in cases pertaining to distressed debtor cases.

In the final analysis, the committee will seek to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number, with a proper regard for the rights of creditors, but with regard also for the fact that unreasonable indebtedness, if maintained, will ruin debtor and creditor alike.

California farmers who have the courage to fight back to solvent conditions, who are willing to sacrifice and put their shoulders to the wheel to save their farms and homes, will undoubtedly find the new farm-debt committees willing to extend a helping hand.

THE STORY OF CALIFORNIA SCHOOLS

By ROY W. CLOUD
State Executive Secretary California Teachers Association

John Swett, A Pioneer Educator

During the immediate years following the adoption of the constitution and the admission of California as a state, beginnings were made in a school system, but they were haphazard and without definite statewide plan or control.

The educational center was in San Francisco. It was to San Francisco, on Feb. 1st, 1853, that there came, after 135 days on the sailing ship Revere, a youth of 22 years—not seeking gold, not planning an educational career, but in search of health. That health he found, and in finding it found his life work. That young man, destined to become California's great pioneer apostle of education, who wrought heroically with the crude materials at hand to lay the base blocks and erect the permanent structure of California's free public school system, was John Swett.

Son of a New England school master, John Swett's enduring work for California's educational system began when he was named principal of Rincon school in November of 1853.

The Swetts were a notable New England family line before, during and following the Revolution in many activities from Indian fighting to agriculture, trade and statesmanship. Such was the background of California's John Swett.

The Rincon school was at First and Folsom streets and, to quote from Swett's memoirs, "to the original shanty there had been added a shed-like addition for the primary children. There was niether blackboard nor map. The only apparatus consisted of a wooden pail and a battered tin dipper from which the children drank water brought from a well not far off, the owner of which allowed the boys to draw one bucket of water a day. There was one small table for the teacher and one rickety chair. The school children furnished their own ink bottles, their pens and their paper."

It was in this addition that the mother of this writer wen to school in October, 1854. Still living, and secretary of the California Society of Pioneers, another of Jno. Swett's pupils of those early Rincon school days: J. H. P. Gedge, now in his ninety-fifth year.

This graphic pen picture presented by Swett of the old Rincon school was a faithful reflex of the schools then in San Francisco with the single exception of the Spring Valley, of somewhat better construction.

The board of education, in its report of September, 1854, remarks:

"We found the schools, seven in number, with the exception of the Spring Valley, in mere temporary buildings, suitable in no specific respect for school purposes—small, badly constructed, inconvenient, dilapidated and wretched in the extreme We spared no effort to relieve them before the rainy season, then near at hand."

As San Francisco was the educational pivot of the state, the school picture there faithfully portrays conditions of public education during the early years of the state's development following the hectic and turbulent period of the gold rush.

It was into such a primitive school atmosphere that the young New Hampshire school master came. The pioneering inheritance of his New England forbears found a virgin soil here for a splendidly virile and dynamic mentality. He was cultured, of poetical temperament, warm and human in impulse and in action and with it all, almost paradoxically, his nature was leavened with an invaluable attribute of practicality. He saw the vision ahead and he had the faculty of executive grasp to proceed and make that vision real: to bring California out of an educational gray dawn and into a golden day

REFORM MASS MEETING IN SAN JOSE TUESDAY EVE

A mass meeting will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, at 7:45 p. m. in the San Jose high school auditorium, San Fernando and Sixth strets. The mass meeting was called by a group of pastors and laymen as a movement in the direction of better conditions politically and socially.

A committee of three was placed in charge of the program, headed by Dr. C. B. Sylvester of the First Methodist church, San Jose. The following speakers have accepted invitations to address the the meeting: Alonzo G. Baker of Mt. View, Fred L. Hart of radio KQW, and the Rev. Hugh M. Jones of Westminster Presbyterian church, San Jose. Dana Thomas of Willow Glen will preside.

The speakers will give a clear and accurate report of conditions existing in the county which call for constructive work in cleaning up the present situation. A plan of action along constructive lines will be presented to the meeting for its approval, and appointment of a committee to conduct the campaign will be brought up for ratification.

LOS GATOS HIGH QUINTS LOSE TO CAMPBELL CAGERS

Campbell high school's unlimited and 130-pound basketball teams added convincing proof of their supremacy among valley teams when they took quints from Los Gatos into camp here Thursday night, 23-18 for the 130's and 20-13 in the heavier class.

The lightweight game was by far the most interesting of the two, being anybody's game until the last quarter.

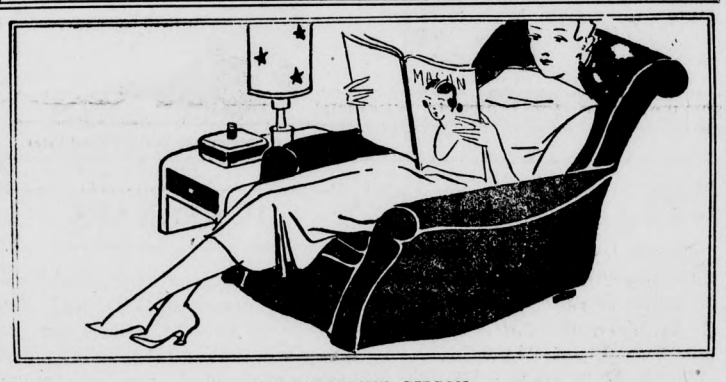
Dinner's in the Oven!



By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

DURING the winter months, oven dinners mean calm, unhurried meals. There is no last minute rush, when dinner has been so planned that main dish, vegetable and dessert are all prepared and placed in the oven late in the afternoon, to come out piping hot and savory, ready to warm the inner man when dinner time arrives. The habit of planning oven meals several times each week may be followed with great success during the next few months when we rather welcome having the kitchen warmed with the oven, and it is pleasant to have the hour before dinner free to read or rest by the fireside. Try these menus for oven dinners—acquire the habit and serve similar ones frequently.

Pour ½ cup water around roll, cover and continue baking in hot oven (425°F.) for 1 hour. Uncover and rebrown slightly. If liquid evaporates, add ½ cup water. Potatoes may be cooked around roll, if desired.

Casserole of Pork Chops and Noodles—Cook 2 cups egg noodles in boiling salted water for 8 minutes. Drain. Fry from 4 to 6 pork chops until nearly done and salt slightly. Mince 1 small onion, combine with noodles, ⅓ cup Tomato Ketchup and 1¼ cups water. Put chops in casserole, cover with noodle mixture and sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake at 350°F. for 30 to 40 minutes.

Swiss Steak—Add salt and pepper to ½ cup flour and pound into 2½ lbs. round steak, 1 inch thick. Brown in a skillet with 2 tablespoons fat; then add ½ onion and ½ green pepper, chopped fine, 1½ cups boiling water and ½ cup Tomato Ketchup. Put in casserole, cover closely and bake slowly until tender, about 1½ hours.

CAMERA ANGLES IN THE LATE NEWS

GREAT LOVE STORY
Acting great love stories in films, Greta Garbo and Jack Gilbert lived one of the most poignant of love tragedies, it is revealed in True Story. You see the great Garbo in one of her ravishing roles.

COMING BACK?
New York papers are hinting that former Mayor Walker of New York may come back to his native city as a result of the visit abroad of Postmaster General James J Farley. "Jimmy" (above) is reported bearing up rather well.

BLIZZARDS
Recurring cycle of sun spots every 22 years gives rise to theory that weather repeats itself in that period. Indications are that present winter will be at least 22 years "old fashioned." You see cars snowed in after big fall near Buffalo.

WHO IS SHE?
C'me up and see me s'me t'me! Maybe that will help, but you'd never recognize Mae West in this picture, taken while she was holding forth, some years ago, on the vaudeville stage. Incidentally Mae tells about those times in Movie Mirror.

CALLS "NEW DEAL" BALLYHOO. Senator L. J. Dickinson (above) gives inkling in Liberty of what may be expected of next Congress. He hopes legislators will direct affairs when they convene.

STAYS HOME NIGHTS. Or whatever a radio crooner's nights may be. Mrs. Bing Crosby, the former Dixie Lee, says in Radio Mirror she knows how to handle the big boo-boo boy, pictured above.

"Stray Cats" Cast Has Previous Experience

organization took part in several of their productions.

Jack Murdock, '28, who is one of the three Skinner Cousins, Dick, will be remembered as having played the part of Dr. Valentine Brown in the senior play, "Quality Street," in 1928. In 1926 and 1927 he played the character roles in the operettas, "The Wishing Well" and the "Garden of the Shah," and in 1928 played the part of Monty Gray in the operetta, "In Old Louisiana."

Mack Ross, '30, plays the part of the second Skinner cousin, Tom. He is a very pompous, self-satisfied, typical small-town lawyer who thinks more of himself than of anyone else. Mack portrayed the part of George Boyd in the senior play, "Charm School," in 1930, and that of Hans in the operetta, "Tulip Time," given the same year. He was the first president of the Campbell Players organization formed at the high school in 1930.

Harold Gardner, '30, bids fair to steal the entire show with his exceedingly funny portrayal of Harry B. S. Skinner, the third of the cousins. He is supposed to be a bumpkin from the country, and his antics in the big city are expected to furnish considerable amusement. Harold played the part of an unruly small boy in the senior play of 1928, when he was but a sophomore. In the senior play of 1930 he was Homer Johns.

Willis Noethig, '30, had minor roles in the operettas of '29 and '30, but most of his oratorical practice has come since leaving high school. He has been the master councilor, a district officer, and orator of the San Jose chapter, Order of De Molay, thereby acquiring the necessary experience to be cast in the role of Billy Jones, the office boy, whose puppy-love for Kitty Baker, the office girl is a feature of the play.

Then there is Bob Stubbe, '29, in the role of the reverend Patterson, who finally disentangles the mess by marrying two of the principals. Bob played the part of the father in the senior comedy of '29, "The Family Upstairs," and was one of the outstanding characters of the play. In addition to taking a part in the play, he has found time to be stage manager of the production.

With such a cast, the play "Stray Cats" promises to be the most unusual offering that has ever been given by a local cast, and if the cast alone were not enough to insure the success of the play, a very fine coach is directing the play. She is Mrs. W. R. Morgan, wife of Dr. W. R. Morgan, local doctor. Mrs. Morgan was formerly associated with the Fresno Community Players, who have quite a reputation in the valley circles of San Joaquin and adjacent counties.

Remember the date, Saturday evening, Jan. 27, at 8:00 p. m. The general admission is 25c, and the proceeds will go to the Oriole fund of the local high school.

PERSONALS

An interesting and educational exhibit prepared by local Sea Scouts at present graces the display window at Odd Fellows hall. Many of the blocks are from famous old sailing vessels now anchored in the Oakland estuary and at Sausalito.

Mr. and Mrs. George Morton and daughter Barbara, of San Francisco, were visiting relatives and friends in Campbell over the week end.

KIWANIS NOTES By Heck

Dr. W. R. Morgan as chairman at Kiwanis luncheon yesterday introduced P. G. Sheehy, accountant of San Jose, who very clearly presented that annual enigma, the income tax statement. Mr. Sheehy, in his line has had a varied experience with the puzzling cases and made many of the dark points clear to his auditors.

Next week L. D. Bohnett will speak on the objections to the proposed county charter.

Nic. Hedegard will wield the tax-gatherers mace and we understand he has several scores to even.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy plan to leave by motor Thursday morning for the vicinity of Palm Springs, where they will remain for a month or more. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy find that climate very beneficial. During their absence their home will be in charge of Mrs. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Mary Palmer, and her friend Mrs. Jenkins.

Miss Louise Lufkin of Los Angeles was the guest of Miss Ruth E. Townsend for several days last week. Miss Lufkin was a former student at San Jose State college.

Group No. 1 of the Congregational church guild will meet Thursday afternoon, Jan. 18, 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Walter Stray, with Mrs. C. E. Farman as co-hostess.

Mrs. Pearl Sorensen recently visited her daughter, Miss Esther Sorensen at San Mateo, where she is attending junior college.

A team composed of Ralph Hyde, Roy Archibald, Carl Field and William Lloyd will Sunday defend the honor of the Campbell club in a Kiwanis golf tournament at the Monterey Bay course.

Miss Mary C. Maxon returned to the University of California last Friday to resume her studies and work in psychology and social service there.
